MASTER MINDS ADVISE HARDING

Herrick and Upham Talk on Their Specialties—Hughes and Knox Chiefly Considered To Lead Cabinet.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Marion, O., Dec. 23.—Farm leaders, practical politicians and cabinet possibilities, occupied the field of discussion between Senator Harding and his advisers here today. Those advisers included, among others, Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland, banker and former ambassador to France; Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the Republican national committee; and Harry M. Daugherty, one of the president-elect's closest personal advisers.

Herrick is regarded as an authority on rural credits. To him many of the details of the farm loan act are attributed. His experience as ambassador at Paris, in the early days of the great war, has given him a close insight into European conditions and his name has not been absent from the varying lists of cabinet possibilities.

Upham, it is believed, discussed not only national financial problems, but the deficits which face the national committee. It has been freely rumored that his counsel would have considerable weight in the naming of a secretary of the treasury.

Indications, backed by the highest authority, that the new secretary of state and the treasury, might be announced and begin to function in an investigatory and advisory manner on March 4, has increased speculation as to the selection for these posts.

It has been established beyond question, it was stated at Harding headquarters, that Charles E. Hughes and Philander C. Knox are under serious consideration for the former position. The fact that Governor Sproule, of Pennsylvania, came to Marion especially to advocate the candidacy of Senator Knox, is regarded here as most significant in connection with Pennsylvania politics.

Senator Harding, according to authentic reports, expects to have three members of his official family determined before he leaves Marion for the south, in January. Around these, it is said, he will build the remainder of his cabinet, each member of which will be pledged to a program of departmental reorganization and retrenchment.

Discussion of Senator Harding's plan for an association of nations with the "leading minds" of the nation, probably will be concluded by January 15, it was announced.

Senator Harding today sent a message of appreciation to New York to Francis E. Drake, department commander of the American Legion in France, commending the work done for those who had lost their dear ones in France, by Paris Post Number 1 of the American Legion.

PUBLIC MARKET AGAIN HEARD OF

Chamber of Commerce Committee Would Cooperate With Farm Bureau in Carrying Out Projects of Advantage of Both City and County.

The Chamber of Commerce Committee on Agricultural Relations, which was appointed some time ago, has held several meetings at which possible ways of bringing about closer relations between Kingston and the farming interests of Ulster county were discussed from the viewpoint of mutual aid and advantage. Overtures have been made to the Ulster County Farm Bureau for a conference to discuss matters in which the Chamber of Commerce may join with the Farm Bureau.

One subject discussed at the meetings of the Chamber of Commerce committee was that of a public market in Kingston, which many farmers think would be to their advantage, and at its last meeting the committee voted to ask the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to take up actively this matter and arrange to consult the organization of farmers and cooperate with them.

The committee also voted to ask the Chamber of Commerce to urge the passage of the "purity in fabric" bill by congress. This is the bill that provides for the branding of pure wool fabrics and penalizes false branding.

Other and more definite matters will be taken up later, after the committee has conferred with the Farm Bureau officials. E. K. Hathaway of Port Ewen, a farmer and member of the Farm Bureau executive committee as well as of the Chamber of Commerce, is chairman of this committee and the other members are: Herbert Carl, Frank B. Matthews, David Burgevin, Mr. Rudderham, A. L. Harder, Frank Messinger, John G. Van Ert, and A. W. Hoffman. Nearly every member of the committee has, at some time in life, had farm experience.

UNSAFE SCHOOL BURNS, 2 DIE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

LYONS, N. Y., Dec. 23.—While the ruins of the Lyons Union High School were being searched today for traces of the bodies of Helen Baltzel, 11, and Elizabeth Burns, 12, practically no doubt exists as to the fate of the two school girls who were trapped in the building by fire which raged the school within a short time after it broke out late yesterday afternoon. In the excitement attending the fire, the girls were dropped over dead, a victim of heart disease. It is believed that the bodies of the two school girls were consumed by the flames. They were in the gymnasium on the upper floor of the school when the fire was discovered. Other children in the gymnasium reached the street in safety, but the Baltzel and Burns girls were not again seen. Investigation reveals that the school building was recently condemned as unsafe in order to open windows in the school it would have been necessary for any one to use a chair to reach the sill, and even then, it is said, it would have required more than the strength possessed by an ordinary child to open one of the heavy windows.

DEATHS SUSPEND ROTARY'S FUN

The Rotary Club luncheon on Wednesday was, for the first time in the life of the club, unaccompanied by the usual singing and hilarity, the recent deaths of John Hauck and William R. Bennett calling for their token of respect. Instead of the usual after dinner talk there was a conference on the annual Christmas charity which brought forth many informing and interesting points of a confidential nature. The members decided to call in a body at 10 o'clock this morning to pay a last tribute of respect to their late member, Mr. Bennett.

CALDER MENTIONS LOWER WAGES

Investigations of Senate Committee Show, He Says, That Building Labor Must Make Its Share of Sacrifice or Housing Situation Will Not Improve—Urges Federal Agency to Supervise Coal Producers' Prices.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Reduction in wages is one of the remedies for America's shortage of houses, Senator Calder of New York, chairman of the senate committee on reconstruction, declared in the senate this afternoon. His committee recently completed an exhaustive and nationwide survey into housing conditions.

High transportation and fuel costs are discouraging building, Senator Calder said, but there can be no reduction in these costs "unless there is some reduction in wages."

With regard to labor in the building industries, Senator Calder declared "there is evidence that we are approaching a period when living costs will be reduced. When that time comes labor must share its part."

"Building construction prices will never come back to the pre-war level," Senator Calder said, warning that "unless the producer can make profits, the shortage of houses will continue; in fact it will become even more embarrassing than it is today."

Senator Calder suggested the following plans for encouraging building:

Legislation providing that 50 percent of savings deposits may be loaned on mortgages.

Reduction of high taxes.

Tax exemption for incomes from mortgages.

Restriction of the issuance of tax exempt securities.

Creation of a home loan banking system.

Reduction of wages when living costs are reduced.

Cancellation of all transportation priority orders.

Establishment of a department of construction.

Discussing the fuel situation, Senator Calder reiterated his previous statements that coal producing must be checked by the government.

"Private interests now in control of the production and distribution of coal are actually unable to prevent a continuance and repetition of the present deplorable situation, and it is the duty of the government to take such action as may be necessary to remedy the situation."

Senator Calder said, "I urged as the first step in such a program, the establishment of a federal agency to which all coal producers would submit complete reports on prices, distribution and production."

Senator Calder opposed subsidy for home builders and declared that this had been done in France and in England "but some day England will face a condition in attempting to pay its housing bonds, that will, unless extraordinary steps are taken to prevent it, undermine her whole business and social fabric."

"The construction of houses is like every other business, based on the ability to pay for the product, and when they can see an opportunity for gain," Senator Calder declared.

TEACHERS TO BE PAID BY CHECK

Board of Education Abandons Cash Payment Plan—Home Bureau to Use Auditorium—Elmer Weed Is Assistant Janitor.

At a meeting of the board of education held Wednesday evening at the high school the usual routine business was transacted by the board and on motion of Trustee Van Wagonen of the finance committee the board voted to pay, in the future, all salaries by check instead of in cash as in now done. The monthly payroll of the teachers and employees of the various schools amount to several thousand dollars each month. It has been customary to have Superintendent of Schools Michael go to the bank and draw out in cash the amount of the payroll. This money was then distributed to the principals of the schools who in turn paid the teachers. The December payroll, which was audited Wednesday evening, amounted to $17,393.86. Hereafter instead of being paid in cash the teachers will receive a check.

A communication was read from Mrs. William Warren, chairman of the Ulster County Home Bureau, requesting free use of the high school auditorium for a series of four monthly lectures. On motion of Trustee Van Wagonen the permission was granted subject to the usual rules. The first lecture will be held in January on "Interior Decoration," one in February on "Clothing," one in March and one in April on "Health." These lectures will be free to the public and will be in cooperation with the state department.

Beside the payroll which was audited the finance committee reported and ordered paid bills amounting to $2,583.19.

On motion of Trustee Van Wagonen, President H. H. Flemming was authorized to arrange for the graduating exercises of the eight grade pupils.

The appointment of Elmer Weed as assistant janitor at the high school was recommended by Trustee Kearney of the building committee. Mr. Weed has been certified by the civil service board and for the past month has been employed at the high school. The report of Trustee Kearney was adopted.

A report of Trustee Kearney was also received in regard to a quantity of articles needed for the part time extension school. Such articles as shafting, belting and pulleys to operate the machinery is required at an estimated cost of $420. After some discussion it was decided that many of the articles might be picked up second-handed at a considerable saving and the committee was authorized to investigate and make the best bargain possible.

The report of Trustee Gill of the visiting committee was received. He had visited Schools 1, 3 and 8 and found things very satisfactory. President Flemming reported having visited the high school. Trustees Atkins, Kearney and Crane were appointed members of the visiting committee for the month of January.

The board then adjourned.

HOUSTON STRESSES TREASURY'S NEEDS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Financial obligations of the United States government for the next two years will aggregate a total of approximately $7,500,000,000. Secretary of the Treasury Houston told the senate finance committee today when it resumed consideration of proposed soldier bonus legislation.

Houston predicted a deficit of $1,500,000,000 for the fiscal year 1922-23.

"Unless something can be done to meet our financial obligations we shall have to look for additional revenues," Houston added, "and without assuming any additional obligations."

The maturity of war savings certificates amounting to $800,000,000 must be met on January 1, 1922, and victory loan bonds totalling $4,500,000,000 in May, 1922, the secretary said.

To carry on the government's ordinary expenses in the fiscal year 1922-23, Houston estimated $4,000,000,000 would be needed, and for the fiscal year 1921-22, $4,400,000,000.

WILSON TO VETO NEW TARIFF BILL

If Passed By Senate—Not In Sympathy With Present Efforts To Meet Economic Situation—May Also Veto Bill Revising War Finance Corporation.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

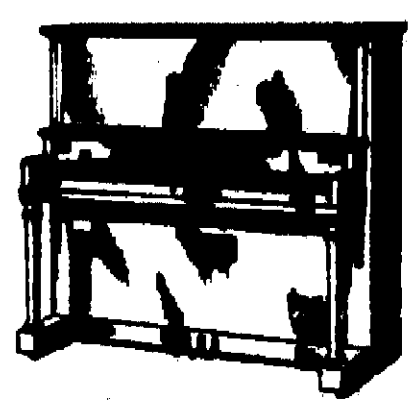

Washington, Dec. 23.—President Wilson will veto the omnibus tariff bill levying duties on agricultural products passed by an overwhelming vote in the house last night. If it is also passed by the senate, and sent to him, according to intimations conveyed to certain Democratic leaders of the senate today.

While none of the Democratic leaders concerned would permit himself to be quoted, it is learned that they have been in close touch with the White House, since the bill was reported favorably by the house ways and means committee, in an effort to ascertain the president's attitude.

While no official statement on the subject has been forthcoming from the White House, it was authoritatively stated at the capital by Democratic senators in a position to ascertain the president's views regarding legislation, that the president was not in sympathy with the present efforts to meet the country's financial and economic situation.

The president's course towards the resolution reviving the War Finance Corporation, passed by congress recently, is still being awaited with undisguised interest.

With both the senate and house session today, it was reported the president might send the measure back to congress with his veto as a Christmas present for those members who opposed it.

IS INVENTION OF AN ITALIAN

New Method is Coming into Practical Use—Pipes Driven and Granite Drilled—Not Same as Hydraulic Power.

New York.—Unheralded except among a narrow circle of engineers and technicians in England and Italy, a new method of harnessing water, invented only a few years ago, is coming into practical use. We make the waves of the air work for us in a thousand ways, and through ages have driven to chain the tides to machinery, but wave power transmission is hailed as a newly come conqueror on the industrial horizon. It is, says Martin Strom in the New York Post, by no means the same as hydraulic transmission of power in the sense now popularly used, and it proposes, in certain fields, to rival electric transmission.

Capt. L. G. Cailleton, R. E., who is at present in New York, and who is a friend of the Italian inventor of the system, George Constantinesco, talked with enthusiasm of the service which he believes wave power transmission is destined to render when the theory is more commonly known, declaring it comprehensible to almost every one in days when little boys build their own airplanes and automobiles, although, of course, a description of the method cannot be given without some technical terminology.

The Principle.
"The transmission of power through a pipe full of water is the simplest thing imaginable—if anything, simpler than the transmission of electric current over a wire," he said. "You wonder why it has never been practically applied before, since theorists have discussed it so much."

"The principle of the system differs fundamentally from the usual conception of the hydraulic transmission of power, where liquid is made to flow through the system. For in wave power transmission the liquid does not flow, but power is handed on from particle to particle of the liquid, these vibrating about a mean position and transferring the impulse received from one to another, until at last the power received at one end of the system has been delivered at the other end."

So far it seemed quite understandable. "These impulses in the form of waves," he went on, "travel through water at the rate of about 4,700 feet a second. The machines are built to work at forty impulses or cycles a second—2,800 per minute."

"What are some of these machines—what can they do?"

"Well, wave power generators and transmission piping are on the market now in England, and tools of a good many kinds are obtainable—rock drills, riveters, coal cutting drills, disc and chain type coal-cutting machines, impact screws, concentrating tables, even pile-drivers."

"Wave power transmission doesn't seem so very different from alternating current electrical transmission," some one reflected.

Wave Transmission.

"There is a similarity, and it's not coincidence," Capt. Cailleton answered. "Many of the laws that govern wave and electrical transmission are interchangeable. You'll be interested to know that in wave transmission there are the equivalents of what we call in electrical practice volts, amperes, frequency, angle of phase, induction, capacity, resistance, conductance, transformer, single-phase and poly-phase systems."

He was interrupted by the question whether anybody could conceivably his private pond for service by aid of wave power machines.

"Oh, naturally, world-wide patents cover the storage of energy in liquids. Experimental work has been carried on in England since 1914, and early in the war the British government took over the entire experimental plant and made all the patents secret, but I understand that considerable use was made of the system in equipping allied battle ships."

He explained how dense water must needs become in the grasp of this invention: "As long as your pipe is strong enough to do the work, the power imparted to the particles at one end of the pipe line by the generator can't help being delivered at the other end."

"Do you think, then, that wave power will ever chase electricity out of the field?"

"No, certainly—but it can be used in cases where it is not desirable to use electric power, or in fields where electrically operated machines do not give the best results, as in mines, or in better ships and shipyards where direct vibratory machines are required. Compressed air at present has practically a monopoly in these fields."

Let's hear more.

GIVEN A RIDE:
From Newburgh to Home in Auto Stolen from Non-in-Law.
Lawrence Brennan, who resides a short distance outside of Newburgh, was shopping in that city Tuesday night with his wife, daughter and son-in-law. He, however, decided not to return with them in his son-in-law's car, but took a trolley to the city limits. As he was walking on the road toward his home he was overtaken by a Ford car, and the driver asked him to ride along. Brennan jumped in the back seat. There were a number of packages in the car, but he gave them little attention. When he alighted from the car, he noticed there was something familiar in the way in which the door on the car shut. Still he gave this no thought.
When the other members of the family came out of a Newburgh theater about 11 o'clock they discovered their car and packages missing. When they arrived home and told Mr. Brennan of the fact, he realized that he had been riding in the missing car.
Three Stolen From Fire.
Three families were made homeless by a fire of unknown origin at 1511 High street, Poughkeepsie, early Wednesday morning. Because work on the part of watchmen and Fred Anderson, driver of Poughkeepsie Fire company, saved the lives of two women and a boy who were trapped on the second floor.

Miss Agnes Stetson
A four-page advertisement inserted by Mrs. Augusta Stetson in New York newspapers was construed by prominent Christian Scientists as an indication that she plans to open a campaign to regain control of the First Church of Christ Scientist in New York. Mrs. Stetson, a pupil and friend of Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the church, was dropped from the rolls of the mother church at Boston in 1903 on charges that she had departed from the teachings of Mrs. Eddy. Mrs. Stetson was head of the New York church for twenty-five years and pastor for seventeen.

DIVORCED HERE, SHE WEDS IN N. Y.

Following closely upon their respective divorces Samuel J. Wagstaff and Mrs. Olga May Plorkowska Thomas, members of well known families of New York and Boston, were married in New York city, Wednesday, in the home of Mrs. Clark Pritchett, 320 Park avenue, says the New York Herald.
Mr. Wagstaff is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wagstaff. His former wife, Mrs. Pauline Le Roy French Wagstaff, who obtained her final decree in Newport on December 9, is a daughter of Amos Tuck French of New York and Newport, and a niece of Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, who as Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt, was the divorced wife of the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt.
Mr. Wagstaff's bride previously was married to Arthur Paul Thomas of this city and Pennsylvania. In obtaining her marriage license before the ceremony was performed at six o'clock yesterday afternoon she declared she had obtained a divorce from Mr. Thomas in the supreme court in Ulster county, N. Y., on December 1. She is the only child of the late Col. Arthur Emil Plorkowski, an officer for some time in the Prussian army under the old regime. Her mother, who lives at the Murray Hill Hotel, is a daughter of the late David Bryant of Boston, who was one of the founders of the Boston Institute of Technology. Wednesday's bride was born in New York, but was educated abroad and has passed much of her life in Europe and the Far East. Mrs. Thomas and Mr. Wagstaff were married by the Rev. Dr. Duffield, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. The guests were chiefly relatives.

AN "ETERNAL TRIANGLE"

In Which Husband Gladly Gives Up Wife.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 23.—An "eternal triangle" in which all three of the principals apparently are happy, came to light here today when A. M. Botsford, actor, admitted that he voluntarily had given up his wife in order that she might marry Raoul Fleischmann, former college chum and life long friend of Botsford.
"I saw the end coming long before it arrived," Botsford said. "We talked it over. I saw that I was standing between Raoul and my wife. I was keeping them from happiness, so—Mrs. Botsford went to Reno and got a divorce, and then married Mr. Fleischmann."
Mrs. Fleischmann, the former Mrs. Botsford, confirmed the news.
"Yes, it's true, and I'm very happy," she said, adding:
"It's sad it had to be the way it was."
Fleischmann was best man at Botsford's wedding.

METACAHONTS.
Metacahonts, Dec. 23.—Mrs. H. O. Colwell of Liberty, N. Y., has been spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Freer and family assisting in the care of her father, Jacob Freer, who is in very feeble health and has not improved any at this writing.
Roswell Osterhoudt and son captured a couple nice grey foxes last week.
Miss Tessie Wood is planning to return soon to her duties at Pine Free Inn, Lakehurst, N. J., after "two weeks' stay in town."
Mrs. David Deput of Accord has been doing dressmaking in town.
Edmund Barley of Rochester, N. Y., is spending his Christmas vacation with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Barley.
Joseph Hendrickson purchased a large hog of Richard Warren which was delivered last week.
Sunday school was well attended on Sunday. Officers were elected as follows for the coming year: Derooy Baker, superintendent; Stanley Kelden, assistant superintendent; Mrs. Charles B. Osterhoudt, woman superintendent; Miss Carrie Deput, assistant; Russell Miller, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. William Miller, assistant secretary and treasurer. The librarians remain the same as last year. It was the suggestion of Mrs. Charles B. Osterhoudt which met with instant approval that the children each bring some gift on Christmas eve to be sent to the Industrial Home at Kingston. It will be "White Gifts For the King" and each lot will bring and donate some fruit or toy or needed article. A collection will also be taken Thursday evening for the Industrial Home. The idea of the donation of the children for the home is to purge them of all selfishness and teach them to share their blessings with less fortunate children.
Mr. and Mrs. Ward V. Bunting and two sons, Clifford and Harold, of New Paltz, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Freer and father, Jacob Freer.
John Vandemark and helpers butchered a 400 pound hog Monday for Ellenville market.
Mr. and Mrs. Jason Bell, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell and son, Clifford, of Kerhonkson Heights, enjoyed a motor trip and visit at Walden on Sunday in Charles Bell's Buick car.
Jacob Hornbush recently visited his daughters, Mrs. William Cowles, at Cornwall.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell and son, Clifford, spent Sunday at Walden, N. Y., on Saturday evening.

LADLETON.
Ladleton, Dec. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mackey spent the day and night at P. W. Hamilton's. Ruth Ann Mackey made a trip to Liberty Saturday.
Martin Roberts, who has been spending some time with his daughters, Julia and Nettie Hamilton, has returned to Kingston.
All are glad to hear Eddie Roberts is coming, and he hopes to see him later soon.
Planning at the Armory Christmas night, Saturday's orchestra. Admission 50 cents.

URGES PUBLICITY ON SAVINGS BANKS

"Take the mystery out of the banking business" is the essence of a letter by George V. McLaughlin, Superintendent of Banks, addressed to the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York, which embraces 139 of the 141 mutual savings banks in the state in which 3,776,462 small savers have on deposit more than two and a half billion dollars.

"There is probably no institution about which the public knows so little as it does about a savings bank. Despite the fact that the savings institution has been in existence in this country for more than one hundred years, and has enlisted the support and interests of the ablest men of the country, it is in the minds of a great part of the public, and a large number of depositors, a mysterious institution, the operations of which they know very little about. This veil of mystery should be lifted. The public and the depositors should be given a clearer view of the actual inside workings of their own great savings bank system.

"Judging from the information which has come to me in the form of letters and remarks, the average person believes that mutual savings banks are a source of great financial profit to their trustees. Only a small percentage of the people know that mutual savings banks, unlike banks of discount and trust companies, are strictly speaking, benevolent institutions, regulated by strict state laws, and carefully supervised by state authorities, and that the trustees serve without pay unless they have an active part in the everyday business of the institution.

"It should be emphasized that the depositors are parties in an institution, the primary motive of which is not to make money, either for those who manage it or for those who avail themselves of its privileges, but it is an institution which takes care of the savings of the people and develops thrift and economy.

Closed Our Season On.

The Forsyth & Davis Motor Car Company of 113 Green street, local distributors for the Franklin air cooled motor car, have sold several closed cars during the past month. Tuesday Roy Sullivan, manager of the company, with two of his drivers brought back from the factory at Syracuse, three Franklin sedans all of which have been sold. With the cold weather here closed types of cars are becoming very popular with motorists and a large portion of the sales made through the Forsyth & Davis agency are for closed cars.

'PEACEFUL SAM' TURNS BERSERK

Mild-Mannered Chicago Tailor Has Interesting Encounter With Hold-Up Man

IS TAPPED ON HEAD

Then, O Boy! Just Drop Below and Read of the Diverse and Sundry Things This Cautious Did to These Burglars.

Chicago.—For so many years that loop folk have come to regard him as an immutable institution, Samuel Goodman has been plying his needle and pushing his tailor's goose in the little shop at 5 East Congress street. Gazing at the humped figure, squatting cross-legged on the old worm-eaten workbench—sewing up wafflers for widowed button holes, snipping a frayed cuff, rehabilitating a shiny elbow—the compassionate philosopher would have seen a symbol of the crushing pace of modern civilization. And would have observed that Mr. Goodman was far—very far—removed from out jungle forebears of prehistoric times.

Two Musky Callers. "Peaceful Sam," as his customers call him with patronizing gentility, received two callers one night—hulky young men, who leered as they closed the front door and asked:

"Well, what have you got?" Mr. Goodman uncrossed his legs, climbed down from the work bench, smiled apologetically, bowed, and, raising his arms to a level with his breast, palms up, thumbs horizontal, shrugged his shoulders and said: "Ah, my friends, I have some fine woollens in the window. I will make you a suit with two pairs of pants for $35."

"Don't kid us, old top," said one of the visitors. "We want your jacket. Put 'em up," and he prodded Mr. Goodman with a revolver.

Mr. Goodman's eyes popped. His knees knocked. He trembled as with age.

"Don't shoot, my friends. I will give you everything."

The visitors laughed. It was a good joke, so good that the one with the gun deftly turned it about in his hand and rapped Mr. Goodman jovially on the head. The old man staggered. A drop of blood appeared. Another and another. It trickled down his eyes, his cheeks, and into his mouth. His tongue moved—and then—

He Hit Them and He Beat Them.

Sam Cuts Loose. His knees stopped knocking. He stood suddenly firm. The hump disappeared from his back. His tongue moved again. There was a glint in his eyes entirely alien to loop life. It was 50,000 years old, that glint.

And the gleeful bandits found themselves of a sudden on the floor under a scratching, tearing, foaming, curdling, hissing, and he beat them. He.

Corp. Albert G. Young, Third Field artillery, Camp Grant, was attracted by a tapping on the window at 5 East Congress street. A little old man with a blood-stained face beckoned to him. Mr. Young entered to find two men lying on the floor.

"Will you call the police, please, sir?" said Sam. "I got to finish this vest, and it's late."

And when the Harrison street patrol arrived, "Peaceful Sam," plying his needle and pushing his goose, smiled apologetically. The two battered captives gave their names as Jack Shaw and Claude Davis.

KISSES PART OF THEIR LOOT

Chicago Holdup Men Take Money, Overcoat and Watch as Well.

Chicago.—Kisses have been made before now, but never in the recorded history of Chicago's criminal operations have they been listed as part of the loot in a holdup with certainty.

Three men stopped James Stewart, resident of the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., and Miss Edna Robinson. They took Stewart's watch, overcoat and $20 and from the girl several stamps and $12.

FILMS SAVE TIME

Put to Good Use by Department of Agriculture.

Pictures of Educational Value May Be Borrowed From the Government at Little Expense.

The motion picture is a time saver. Suppose a county agent is showing a group of farmers how to construct a wooden silo; with the motion-picture outfit he can show them in 15 minutes what it would take him days to show by actual demonstration. Suppose a home-demonstration agent wishes to show a model kitchen in Massachusetts to a group of farm women in Nebraska. A trip from the Great Plains to the North Atlantic is not necessary. The thing can be done in a few minutes with the motion-picture projector and a reel of film.

The United States Department of Agriculture is using the motion picture in a great many ways. Films already made cover 112 agricultural subjects. There are 460 reels, or more than 400,000 feet of film available for distribution. All of this film is in circulation, most of it constantly. During the past 12 months more than 700,000 persons saw one or more of these films.

The films were in use, not only by the extension workers and other employees of the department, but by state colleges of agriculture, farm bureaus, chambers of commerce, women's clubs and various other organizations, as well as commercial motion-picture houses.

Persons desiring to use any of these films can borrow them if they comply with some necessary regulations. Applications can be made through the county agent, the director of extension of state agricultural college, or any other officially co-operating agency. The borrower does not have to pay anything for the use of the films, except the cost of transportation.

The whole matter is explained in detail in Department Circular 114, which has just been printed and copies of which may be had free. This circular gives a list of all the motion-picture reels. It explains in detail the borrowing process. It outlines the procedure for those who would rather buy than borrow. It tells how to select a projector, and sets forth the advantages of the various kinds. It discusses lights and screens, and it gives definitions of words that motion-picture users should know.

"Bees" Fooled Napoleon.
Napoleon was not satisfied with the fleur-de-lis, when he came to the throne of France, as a royal emblem. He desired something more ancient, and in seeking it he saw what was supposed to be a handful of gold bees, their wings encircled with a red stone of no great value, but rich in its pure crimson. The "bees" were scattered on a green cloth, and Napoleon, inquiring into their origin, was told they had been found in the grave of Childeric when it was opened in 1693. This was ancient enough for the new emperor, and he ordered that they be adopted as the imperial emblem forthwith.

The facts are, that what was held to be golden bees were in reality mere ornaments, scattered on the harness of horses, especially war horses, so that in parades they would glitter as much as their mailed masters. A few bearing what was thought to be wire legs were in reality those that retained the wire devices for fastening them to the leather or trappings. They have since been known as "Napoleons." The original "bees" discovered in the tomb had been sent as a curiosity to Louis XIV.

Meanings of Oats in Dreams.
To dream of this grain foretells a journey by land; if an engaged young girl dreams of oats it denotes that her wedding tour is not far off. To see the field of oats is a good sign, but to see it cut down is an evil omen. To see oats stored away denotes famine. To see oats signifies much happiness and gain.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

CITY ASKED TO AID EUROPE'S HUNGRY

House-to-house canvasses on January 9th and each $10 collected means saving of one child's life—organization well along.

In response to an urgent appeal in behalf of the hungry children in Europe made to the city of Kingston by the national chairman, Herbert Hoover, a special committee met Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. to consider the best way of meeting the appeal. Those present promised to spare no effort in raising as much money as possible towards this most worthy cause. It was pointed out that each ten dollars collected would mean the saving of a child's life.

Martin Cantline, who made a special trip from New York to be present as the representative of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross, was elected chairman for the county, while John E. Mahur, was elected chairman of the soliciting committee for Kingston. It was decided to have a house-to-house canvass on the afternoon of January 9, 1921. The following have been elected vice chairmen on the executive committee: Charles R. O'Connor, president of the Chamber of Commerce; S. M. Watts, representing the Rotary Club; the Hon. Palmer A. Canfield, mayor of Kingston; Y. M. C. A.; Dr. Bernard M. Kaplan, Temple Emanuel, representing the joint distribution committee; and Mrs. Frank Thompson, representing the Federation of Women's Clubs. A number of representative citizens who could not be reached yesterday evening will be added to the committee later. E. E. Oughelree was elected secretary, Charles R. O'Connor acting as general treasurer for the county.

It is to be hoped that no one who is imbued with the Christmas spirit will fail to make as his or her Christmas gift this year the saving of a life of a starving child in Europe.

A publicity committee consisting of M. S. Safford, chairman, and Dr. B. M. Kaplan and S. D. M. Hudson has been appointed.

Cardinal Gibbons.

Bishop Owen Corrigan, vicar general of the archdiocese of Baltimore, in an official bulletin regarding the condition of Cardinal Gibbons, who has been reported to be seriously ill at Union Mills, Carroll county, Md., has asked that daily prayers be said for him. The cardinal's condition is said to vary from hour to hour.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

HENRY ESMOND

By WILLIAM MAKEPEACE THACKERAY

Condensation by Mrs. Annie D. Hubbard, Littleton, Mass.

William Thackeray was intensely loved by a few and as much disliked by his enemies. Such personalities as Tennyson, Fitz-Gerald and Charlotte Bronte were among his admirers, but the hangers-on to Crab street, the lesser fry who envied his social success, regarded him as an insufferable snob.

He did indeed take a quite child-like delight in dining with the socially eminent. He frankly liked to be pointed out as "the great Mr. Thackeray," and so frankly he resented the gross familiarity of Tom, Dick or Harry, who seemed to have known him in his infancy. But it was rather that he pitilessly discerned and detected the toady and the mean-spirited flatterer than that he was a snob.

Thackeray lived at the period when wealth without manner or intellect generated widespread desire for social success. At the same time "The Back Kitchen" and "The Case of Hamlyn," immortalized by Colonel Newcome, were the most eagerly frequented haunts of the day. Thackeray knew every aspect of this rather vulgar society. He was as much at ease with the prime minister of England as with the proprietor of the "Back Kitchen."

With his keen satiric sense and sharp wit, the character of Esmond played in with his tender heart and kindly humor the great novelist understood it. In his own way he strove to regenerate it.

Three qualities of heart and mind, which live in his books, created the people of his personality: He was a cynic! By his life all wrought of goodness, or, mild words and gentle ways! His heart wide open to all kindly thought, His hand so quick to give, his tongue to praise!

IN the days when the Stuart was playing his losing game for England's crown, a sorrowful, precocious boy was growing up, half-loved, half-neglected, in Castlewood House, knowing all the secrets of its hidden chambers, where cavalier and priest could hide for a lifetime. Harry was reputed the illegitimate son of Thomas Esmond, Lord Castlewood, whose childless wife, herself an Esmond, had been a beauty and king's favorite once. After Viscount Castlewood had died, fighting for King James at Boyne Water, and King William's men had taken his lady prisoner, hiding in her cell, painted and powdered, as a madwoman in her brocade gown and jeweled red stockings—by her side the young boy holding the papers of his father's another kinsman, Francis Esmond, had taken possession of the old house.

"O dear child," little Harry Esmond said in his heart, when Rachel, the new Lady Castlewood, in her lovely girlhood, met him in the yellow gallery, and there stirred in him the beginnings of a lifetime's devotion to her, to her beautiful children, Beatrice and Frank, and to his loyal, new patron, Francis, Lord Castlewood. As a loved kinsman now, Harry had grown to manhood, when suddenly the smallpox, ravaging the neighborhood, destroyed for a time Lady Castlewood's beauty, and her gay husband's heart turned to lesser loves, though he still cared enough to be wildly jealous when Lord Mohun, a London lord, made love to her. The two men fought, and Francis, fully murdered by Mohun, on his deathbed made a written statement that he had long known from the priest who heard Thomas, Lord Castlewood's, dying confession that Harry Esmond had a right to the name he bore, and was head of the house of Castlewood.

This paper, stained with the blood of his dear master, Harry burned, and vowed—thanking Heaven that he had been enabled to make the righteous decision—that his mistress should never know sorrow through him, and that little Frank should become Lord Castlewood in his father's stead.

Fate dealt hardly just now with Harry Esmond, for as he lay wounded and in prison as a result of his part in the duel, his dear lady, visiting him, chose to believe that he might have prevented her husband's death. Perhaps because she felt in her heart a tender love for him that she dared not confess, she forbade him her home, and even her friendship. The living of the parish church of Castlewood, long since presented him, was given elsewhere, and Esmond would have been penniless and friendless had not the old dowager, his father's widow, who had long cherished plans against the younger and fatter Lady Castlewood, remembered him to her new home at Chertsey. As he knelt her withered hand and kissed her on the forehead, wondering in his young heart how her guests that he knew he was her husband's true son and chief of the house. Half frightened, he drew from him the story of his destruction, and when he told her that his father's son would not acknowledge the wrong his father had done her, and asked only for her husband, her worldly old heart was softened. Her faith in her "son Esmond" to her, and when her influence in court had secured him an elegant education, she was proud of him in his laced scarlet coat.

Esmond served with some distinction under Marlborough abroad and was wounded at Blenheim, but the best thing his campaigning brought him was a chance encounter in St. Gude's church at Brussels with Father Holt, the tutor of his boyhood, who told him his mother's story. She had been of that very town, and a most tender, faithful creature. His father had deserted her, married her secretly, and again deserted her, and she had taken her broken heart to that convent. Esmond knelt by her grave, took a flower from the little lilylock, and as he listened to the choir chanting from the chapel, realized afresh that love and humility were all that counted in life.

One great happiness had come to Esmond before this—he had seen his dear lady, her face sweet and sad in her widow's hood, in Winchester cathedral and when their eyes had met, the time of estrangement was passed. Knowing now how her heart had followed him, he dreamed that they might be happy together, but she saw more clearly. When, in their house at Walscot, Beatrice, the 16-year-old maid of honor, with a scarlet ribbon upon the whitest neck in the world, came to meet him, he forgot her mother. No other woman of her day was like her for beauty and wit, and for ten years he was her slave, kneeling with his heart in his hand for the young lady to take, while she looked far higher than the nameless and fortuneless colonel. "Yes," she said, "I solemnly vow I want a good husband. My face is my fortune. Who'll come? Buy! Buy!" While marquises and lords were coming, eager for her, Esmond bore the torments of a hopeless passion, and his dear mistress suffered with him.

At last a suitor worthy of the prize appeared—the Duke of Hamilton—much Beatrice's senior, wealthy, and second to none in the kingdom. Esmond had to accept his fate. The wedding gift he made her was the splendid string of diamonds his father's widow had given him. As she accepted it with a cry of delight, her bridegroom-elect, with a darkening face, told her he did not choose the Duchess of Hamilton should accept presents from gentlemen who had no right to the names they bore. Her mother, to whom the old dowager on her death-bed had maliciously told Harry's story, answered for her: "Harry Esmond is his father's lawful son and true heir. We are the recipients of his bounty, and he is the head of a house as old as your grace's own." And Beatrice, from whom it had all been kept a secret, whispered to him, "Why did not I know you before?"

On the eve of marriage the duke died in a duel. Beatrice mourned him honestly, but Esmond dared hope for himself, and planned a bold move to win her love. All the Esmonds were heart and soul for the Stuart cause. Frank, the young viscount, who was fighting abroad, closely resembled the exiled cavalier. The two came together to Lady Castlewood's London house, the prince impersonating the viscount, and Frank, his valet, and were received with great joy. Stuart partisans came to the house by stealth, and the plot spread like leaven. The maid of honor contrived an interview between the prince and Queen Anne, his sister, whose health was failing, and all hoped that she would proclaim him her successor. Then Beatrice's friends began to fear for her, as the prince, who had no respect for women, was infatuated with her and she listened to him. Against her will she sent her to Castlewood. Suddenly the Queen was reported dying, and the prince could not be found. Esmond had found means to tell him her whereabouts, Henry Esmond and Frank's all night to Castlewood. Entering the secret window, they found the prince and told him they came to avenge their dishonor. Taking from their old hiding-place the papers proving his birth and title, Esmond burnt them before the prince, with the words: "I draw my sword and break it, and renounce you. Had you completed the wrong you designed us, I would have driven it through your heart." Frank, breaking his own sword, echoed him: "I go with my cousin. I'm for the Elector of Hanover. It's your Majesty's fault. You might have been king if you hadn't come dangling after Trix!"

The talk was scarce over when Beatrice entered the room. She turned pale at the sight of her kinsmen, and looked at Esmond as if she could have killed him on the spot.

As they rode back into London, the herald was proclaiming: "George, by the grace of God, King." Queen Anne had died that night.

The cavalier escaped secretly to France, where Beatrice joined him. Frank had married a foreign countess, and Esmond's mistress was left alone. At last, as beautiful in her autumn as maidens in their spring, she listened to him, and consented to become his wife. In their Virginia plantation they built a new Castlewood, and found there an Indian stranger of serene happiness.

Red Indians in Paganism.

"Indians have a great deal of dramatic ability and express themselves with unusual ease in paganistic action," says Miss Folsom, a young Cuban Indian woman who has written and directed a play for her people called "The Fifty Years' Truce." The play was given recently before a convention of the Episcopal Church in the West. Folsom's play depicts the long battle the Indians have had to see better than they know how to use their voices. Miss Folsom, who has charge of the activities for Indian girls of the Y. W. C. A., is planning other plays of Indian setting with dialogue in both English and Indian.

In The Following Letter:

ELLENVILLE, N. Y.

Dec. 21, 1920

Mr. William M. Davis,

Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Friend:

I have your letter and want to thank you for same.

I assure you I greatly appreciate your kindness and prompt attention in this matter.

I don't know whether or not I told you that the front tires on my Franklin Sedan have gone 19,000 miles with but one puncture, and they look like several thousand more. Some people act as if they doubted this when I show them the tires.

My engine is wonderful, too. I haven't had a Spark Plug out or the Valves ground in all those miles of service. It starts these cold mornings as readily as though it were Summer.

If any one says I knock the Franklin just tell them that on the contrary I am a BOOSTER.

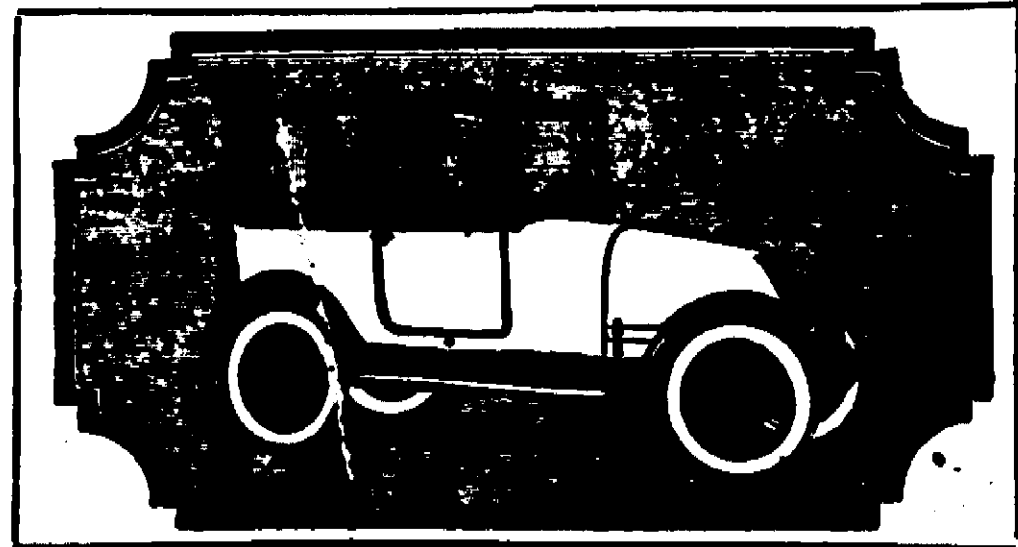

Thanking you again, and wishing you the compliments of the season, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed)

HOLIDAY RUSH AT POSTOFFICES

Four Extra Men and Six Hips
Helping Handle Tons of Christmas Gifts Here.

The annual Christmas rush is on in the post office department and few people realize the amount of mail matter which daily passes through the local post office. Besides the usual business, the holiday season always brings with it tons of Christmas mail which must be handled in addition to regular mail. Although Postmaster DeWitt's staff of postal employees, regular with the increased mail for several days they alone were unable to handle the ever increasing stacks of letters, postals and parcel post matter and this week several substitutes were added to the staff.

Including the carriers as well as clerks in the office there are twenty-four extra men at work to assist the regular men in keeping up with the mail of business. Instead of the usual one parcel post wagon to distribute the packages the seven rigs employed and a helper is supplied on each wagon to hasten delivery.

The parcel post sorting department is one of the most interesting departments of the post office. In normal times this department is handled upstairs in the central post office. During the Christmas rush the entire parcel post department is transferred to the basement where the packages are sorted and packed. Each bin serves a street or group of streets and a parcel received at the local office is deposited in the proper bin. When there are parcels enough received to make a load for a certain section of the city they are routed by the clerks according to street and number and sent out to one of the delivery wagons. In this way the delivery of the parcel post is never late while the parcels are being sorted. Thousands of parcels are received daily and distributed from the local office.

Another department which gets an unusual share of the Christmas rush is the post card department and during the holiday season cards are worked separate from letters. A case is devoted entirely to post cards. Here outgoing cards are sorted and done up into what are known as "direct packages," that is cards for a certain town or city are placed in the bundle and tied up not to be opened until they arrive at their destination. This saves the man working a sack of mail from handling over scores of single cards all for the same destination.

Letters are worked as usual on the main floor of the post office. Incoming mail is first received by the clerks who sort it according to the different routes in the city. Five cases are so arranged that all five may be worked at the same time by as many men. Here the mail is sorted out and arranged for the nine different routes in the city and the four rural routes. After the mail has been roughly sorted here it is handed over to the different carriers who in turn are provided with a case where their mail is routed out according to the streets and number in the order in which their routes are covered. In this way there is very little delay between the time mail matter is received and delivered.

For those who have watched the country postmaster cancelling each postage stamp it is a treat to see the process of cancelling a stamp in a larger office. The letters or cards are first placed with the stamps in one position and then they are placed in a cancellation machine where they are automatically cancelled at the rate of 1,050 a minute.

In order that all packages and mail matter may be delivered on time the clerks and carriers will work Christmas day. You may think the mail carriers have an easy life but a visit to the post-office just before the Christmas holiday season would certainly change that opinion and Assistant Postmaster William G. Maynard was entirely justified this morning as he looked over a huge pile of mail and remarked that he was glad Christmas came but once a year.

MRS. HAMON ON WAY TO ARDMORE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
El Paso, Texas, Dec. 23.—Clara Smith Hamon, in the custody of Sheriff "Buck" Garrett, left here early today for Ardmore, Okla., where she will stand trial for the murder of John L. Hamon, millionaire and member of the Republican national committee.

The search for her that has held the interest of the nation for several weeks ended when she surrendered to Sheriff Garrett here at 6:55 o'clock last night.

By permission of officials Mrs. Hamon spent the night with her parents in El Paso. Deputy sheriffs kept guard on the Smith home throughout the night.

According to statements made by Ardmore officials and by Mrs. Hamon's attorneys, arrangements have been completed for her to give a bond of $10,000 upon her arrival in Ardmore. With the preliminary legal matters in connection with her surrender adjusted, it is expected she will return to El Paso to make her home with her parents until her case is called for trial in the Ardmore courts.

Attorney William McLean, of Fort Worth, who came here to act as counsel for Mrs. Hamon, announced that he would seek an immediate trial for his client.

The surrender of Mrs. Hamon, who was found in Chihuahua, Mexico, by Sam Blair, a reporter for the Chicago Herald and Examiner, occurred in the presence of a score of newspapermen. Federal officials expedited her transfer across the border.

Immediately upon her arrival she was taken into custody by Sheriff Garrett and whisked in an automobile to the home of her parents. Newspapermen who sought to interview her were warded off by deputies.

"As Light as Air."
"I have often been accused at this stage," writes a correspondent, "of being too serious and going to the mass which passes that air has weight. But I doubt if they would be able to carry a pound of air if it weighed twenty-five pounds more." A simple illustration is furnished rather well, and a poem that measures 20 feet by 76 feet wide by 12 feet high contains ten pounds of air.

Simple Solution.
"Why," said the man who does not care much for poetry, "did the Arch Angel say that air had no weight?"
"It says so," replied the poet, "who always makes a bluff at answering my questions. They had their meeting yesterday in those days, the day we are now."

Explain This.
"Pop."
"Yes, my son."
"Doesn't eating candy for supper hurt?"
"Oh, yes, my boy."
"Well, why is it that the more a man eats the more appetite he is said to have?"

ABANDON HOPE FOR BALLOONISTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 22.—Hope that the three missing balloonists who left the naval station at Rockaway Point, L. I., just ten days ago, on a flight to Canada, would be found alive was practically abandoned by naval officials here today. Officers gave it as their belief that the big gas bag had been forced down somewhere in the depths of the Adirondack forests. The chances that the three naval officers, Lieutenants Walter Hinton, A. L. Kloor and Stephen Parrell, had escaped death, they said, were very slight as they had only a small supply of food.

Lieutenant W. A. Evans, sent to Ottawa in the search for the missing balloonists, wired the Rockaway Point station today as follows: "Weather as far as the Ottawa river very good for balloonists; north of the Ottawa river snow increasing, covered by a light crust today. I interviewed the air force, the Royal Mounted Police and the Naval Service. I have telephoned all the telegraph stations along the Canadian and Pacific Railroads and railroads north of the Ottawa river."

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, Dec. 23.—Miss Bertha Sutton spent last Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Terwilliger at Walden.

Arrangements are being made for the Christmas entertainment and tree to be held in the church on Tuesday evening, December 28, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Mackey and family visited with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gulnick at New Paltz on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shay were in Walden on Saturday.

Word was received in this place on Sunday of the arrival of a little son at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Slater at Pine Bush. Mrs. Slater was formerly Miss Adah Van Kleeck.

Mrs. Bruce Hadley and children were in Newburgh on Saturday.

Watson Gregg left here last week for Pennsylvania, where he has taken a position.

Members of the Circle are rehearsing for a play, "The Wayfarers," which they expect to give in the church in the near future. Cast of characters: Josh Waterbury, the constable, Harry Birch; Heskiah Green, the animal poet, Arthur Zimmer; Frank Dudley, an adventurer, Harold Tenny; Jim Watson, a slave to drink, Gerow Wilkins; the Rev. John Graham, the "little minister," Charles Everett; Miss Philura, Uncle Billy's sister, Bertha Sutton; Emma Larkins, Uncle Billy's niece, Katherine Hotelling; Bessie Lynn, Clytie, the wayfarers, Beatrice Everett, Myrtle Gale.

Commercial Troubles in Turkey.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Constantinople, Dec. 23.—A serious commercial crisis is hampering business in Turkey. Several large business firms have suspended payments on account of the stoppage of supplies from Anatolia, where the Russian bolsheviks have been buying heavily. Supplies there are practically exhausted, it is said. Turkey, therefore, is forced to buy in other quarters at greatly enhanced prices.

Weather Hinders Search for Balloons.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Glens Falls, N. Y., Dec. 23.—With clouds hanging low and threatening a continuance of the rain and sleet storm which struck here last night, it is extremely unlikely that Lieutenant L. V. Beau and Lieutenant F. B. Johnson, army fliers, will resume their flights today over the Adirondacks in search of the three lost naval balloons.

Landenthal Interested.

Gustav Landenthal, who is considered to be America's foremost bridge builder, is now working on plans which he hopes will solve the problem of securing a highway bridge over the Hudson at Poughkeepsie. Landenthal criticized the present Poughkeepsie bridge in a recent article in the American Magazine.

LYNCH'S VICTORY IS POPULAR

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 23.—Joe Lynch should be a popular champion.

The new bantamweight king, crowned by virtue of a fifteen round decision over Peter Herman, likes to fight. He promises to meet anybody worthy of a chance at the title he has won and if he lives up to that promise he will be the most popular bantam who has held the championship in years.

Lynch is idolized in Gotham because he is a New York boy, born and bred on the west side. He is also New York's first bantamweight champion in two decades. Terry McGovern was the bantamweight champion for a short year, but Terry was not an out and out New Yorker, having been born in Johnstown, Pa.

The new champion has come to the front in rapid strides. It has been only in the last two years that he has attracted more than passing attention and only within the last six months that he took his last long steps toward the title.

In knocking out Jack Sharkey a few weeks ago, Lynch earned the right to meet Herman and today he is champion and the possessor of a Tex Rickard's diamond-studded belt.

Herman had his admirers in the Garden last night. In fact, the little champion was a favorite in the betting right up to ring time, when even money prevailed. But Herman did nothing when he got into that ring to justify the confidence that had been shown in him.

Lynch carried the battle to Herman from the first tap of the gong and won thirteen out of fifteen rounds. Herman showed but one flash in the whole bout and that came in the tenth, when seeming to realize that the title was slipping away from him, he flew into Lynch and sent the west side boy back to his corner tired and blowing.

If Herman thought Lynch would come back timidly in the eleventh, however, he was badly mistaken for the little red-headed scrapper flew out of his corner at the bell and it was all Lynch from that time on. Herman hurt his chances with the judges by much running away and much clinching. He fought one of the poorest battles of his career. He was clearly outclassed and the verdict of the judges was received with cheers that shook the ancient garden to its very foundation.

Surely, Lynch will be a popular champion, the tenth of his class in America and the sixth recognized bantam champion of the world.

Mrs. James C. Biddle.

The announcement of the marriage of James Cornell Biddle, of Philadelphia, former monk of the Trappist Order, to Miss Mary Lena Gaines, of Warrentown, Va., has created international interest. Mr. Biddle is a member of the Philadelphia family of that name, one of the oldest and wealthiest in the country. A convert to the Catholic faith, he became a monk of the Trappist Order twenty years ago and until two years ago lived in the German Monastery in Kentucky. Two years ago he renounced his vows and re-entered the outside world. He first met his bride, a daughter of one of the Old Dominion's oldest families, about a year ago.
